DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The house is a two story, frame structure, with a five bay, main (west) facade. The central entrance has a double doorway with transom and side lights. The doors are each two panel--the central recessed panels having Italianate mouldings and faceted centers. The roof is of cross gable design; the gable ends are decorated with pattern work and the eaves have bargeboards. The porch has turned posts with brackets supporting the boxed cornice; the frieze is dentiled. The house is sheathed with weatherboard. Window surrounds are plain board fasciae; windows are 1/1 double hung sash; where opening onto a porch, the sills are just above the level of the porch floor.

In the plan, the house has a narrow central hall with two rooms opening off either side. Each room has a fireplace along the hall partition wall; in addition, there is a fireplace in the hall sharing the stack of the southwest room. Each pair of first floor rooms are joined by large, square-headed archways with sliding doors. The staircase rises in three runs, without winders, along the south wall of the hall. With the exception of the hall fireplace, the second floor plan generally repeats the first floor plan.

The trim throughout the house consists of wide baseboards, fluted architraves, four panel doors, and transom lights above the interior doors.

The kitchen wing to the east is lower, but repeats the same motifs: bargeboards, windows, wetherboarding, turned column back porch, etc.

Behind the house is a small, shed-roofed outbuilding with weatherboarded exterior. Another outbuilding has tongue and groove siding.

A large bankbarn stands behind the house. The braced framing is notched and pegged together. The barn probably predates the house.
